MARRIAGE IN THE CHURCH

Appropriately for February, the month of Valentine's Day, two important Discussion Evenings are taking place in the Diocese about the Scottish Episcopal Church and Same Sex Marriage. The proposal to change Canon Law to allow same sex marriage in church comes for debate at General Synod in Edinburgh in June this year.

Prior to that, each Diocesan Synod is asked to consider and indicate its mind on the matter. Brechin Diocesan Synod meets on Saturday 11 March, and in preparation two meetings are arranged for Clergy, and Readers, Lay Representatives and Vestry members, indeed anyone in our congregations who is interested in finding out more and sharing views.

Chaired by Bishop Nigel, the evenings will benefit from a presentation by the Very Reverend Andrew Swift, Dean of Argyll & the Isles Diocese, who will explain the ongoing process and outline the different and opposing viewpoints on Same Sex Marriage in the Church.

There will be questions and discussion time. Refreshments.

We look forward to seeing you
