HRH Prince Charles, Duke of Rothesay, lays a wreath at the National Scottish Battle of Loos Centenary Commemoration held in Dundee City Square on 26 September 2015.

This significant occasion was one of many First World War Centenary events taking place at this time – involving veterans and serving soldiers, school children and the public. The Scottish Poppy Appeal raises over £2 million each year to support service personnel in need.

Remembrance Sunday is 8 November 2015.
